It is usual to have three godparents, two of the same sex as the child and one of the opposite sex. To have only two, one godfather and one godmother, is sufficient. It is permissible to have more than three godparents.

Church law requires that godparents should be baptised. If you want someone to be a godparent who has not yet been baptised there are two choices. 1. The person can be baptised at a simple private ceremony on a date prior to your child's baptism. 2. The person can take the part of a godparent at your child's baptism, but technically will not be a godparent and will not be recorded as a godparent, or issued with a certificate. Parents of the child do not have to be baptised, but it is highly desirable that they should be.

About how many guests do you expect to bring for the Baptism? _____
